CHEMISTRY SEMINAR INVITATION

Please join us on Monday to hear about the Forensic Science Program at Michigan State from a former EMU student. This seminar will provide an overview of the program including specializations in anthropology, biology, and chemistry. This will include topics such as entrance requirements, degree requirements, and outreach. In addition, a brief overview of each of the current research projects, specifically in the forensic chemistry specialization, will be discussed. This seminar will provide an opportunity to ask questions about the forensic science field, graduate school, and career prospects.
