

Congratulations to the SAG faculty on the achievement of having the SAG program ranked #35 Nationally among public schools and colleges and #17 in the Midwest in the 2017 Animation School Rankings:

35. Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Michigan (top 45% of schools considered)

The College of Technology, School of Visual and Built Environments is home to the Simulation, Animation and Gaming Program (SAG). The program, which emphasizes Animation, Modeling, Lighting, Rigging, and Camera Work in 3D, gives students “a wide variety of experiences in their course of study, which provides a competitive advantage over many other programs that are local, national and international.” The SAG Program leads to a BS with a Focus in Simulation, Animation, and Gaming.

Eastern Michigan University (EMU) was established in 1849 as Normal School, then as a College, and finally as a University. Today, Eastern Michigan University is home to approximately 21,105 students enrolled in more than 200 programs across five colleges plus the Honors College.
