

Breakout Sessions

Student Center, 3rd Floor

Choose two of the four sessions

Undergraduate Research, Room 300

W. John Koolage, Ph.D., Department of History and Philosophy and Interim Director of General Education
Danielle Clevenger, Graduate Assistant, Department of History and Philosophy
Lauren Williams, Undergraduate Student, Philosophy

The Honors College encourages students to conduct research in their major and/or minor during their time at Eastern Michigan University. Becoming involved in research gives students professional experience in their future fields. It also provides the opportunity to create connections with faculty members.

Involved, Connected, Living The HC Experience, Room 352

Kaylee Brown, Alumna, The Honors College
Nathaniel Pyle, Undergraduate Student Fellow, The Honors College
Chayna Brunner, Undergraduate Student Fellow, The Honors College

Your relationship with The Honors College will go beyond academics. Come learn about the exciting events coming up this year with The Honors College and Black Honors Student Organization. The Honors College offers events such as the Welcome Back Picnic, Blanket Making, Honors Yoga, and an array of events put on by BHSO. BHSO is a student organization committed to fulfilling the needs of current and prospective students of Color by providing a strong support system amongst its members. Past events include the Iron Chef Competition, Our Untold Stories panel, Soulful Dinner, and Alternative Spring Break trips.

Study Abroad Opportunities, Room 310

Ronald Delph, Ph.D., Department of History and Philosophy
Samantha Bartolet, Undergraduate Student Fellow, The Honors College

Eastern Michigan University is a leader in offering students the opportunity to study abroad. This year alone EMU is offering 37 study abroad programs to students. This session will explore the numerous study abroad options available and address common concerns including funding and scholarships, and what to expect from your study abroad experience.

Funding Opportunities, Room 330

John Feldkamp, Associate Director, The Honors College
Lauren Renou, Alumna, The Honors College

Honors students have access to unique scholarships and fellowships to help enrich their Honors College experience. In this session, learn from Honors staff specifically what scholarships, fellowships, and awards are available and how they can help you make the most of not only your Honors experience, but college experience in general. Funding ranges from being a member of the Student Fellow program, fellowships to conduct research, and study abroad awards.
