MUSC 115 Introduction to Digital Music

FULLY ONLINE!

Back in the day, working in a recording studio was . . .   Today, it's mostly done in software . . .

This course is about music production. We can create enormous amounts of music with software and a laptop. You will choose your projects from a wide variety: MIDI sequencing and arranging, composition with MIDI and digital audio, synth programming and sound design, live looping and loop-based music creation, recording/editing/mixing/mastering, film scoring, etc. If you have an idea for a cool project, I'm open to it—just talk it over with me!

I'm thinking of tutorials and software guides (manuals) as "textbooks." So, usually, in a class you read the textbook then come to class ready to ask questions or engage in class discussion. The great thing is that we don't have a pricey textbook for this class--just lots of free tutorials and software manuals.

Remember, no tricks! I'm really interested in being available and making it possible for you to really dig into this material making it relevant to you.

Unleash your creativity and explore music production for today & beyond!

Now enrolling for Fall 2019: MUSC 115, CRN# = 16710

If you need permission to register, please contact Dr. David Pierce, dpierce@emich.edu