Course Overview

This course examines the politics of global economic relations. It will focus on issues of international trade, the international monetary system, and foreign investment. Among the specific topics to be discussed are: trade and protectionism, the role and performance of global institutions such as the IMF, World Bank, and WTO, the significance of multinational corporations, efforts at regional economic integration such as the EU and NAFTA, the relationship of the world economy to the economic development of poor countries, and the emergence of new economic players such as China and India. All of these issues will be examined against the backdrop of economic globalization and the changes in the current global economic environment with Brexit and Western Backlash against globalization.

Objectives:

The expectation is that students will leave the course with:

1) A basic understanding of the subject of international trade, finance, and investment relations.

2) A familiarity with the instruments, strategies, and motives of political institutions (both domestic and international) as they attempt to manage international economic relations.

3) Greater ability, as citizens, to understand and to participate in the public debate over the issues central to this course.

4) Understanding of the impact of globalization on developed and developing countries.

5) Ability to conduct Political Risk Analysis.

6) Further development of the critical reasoning skills, as well as skill of clear, precise writing via both in-class and take home essays.

7) Be able to confidently present their ideas to their peers, and be able to verbally argue about the merits of their ideas and opinions.
Materials

There are two required texts available for purchase at campus bookstores or through any online vendor:

1. Introduction to International Political Economy. Edition No. 5. Authors: David N. Balaam and Bradford Dillman. (B&D)

An important component in understanding the ideas in political economy is being able to relate them to current political events happening across the world. Therefore in this class we will regularly be discussing world events and as students you should be aware of them. I would encourage that you should daily read a major newspaper (The Wall Street Journal, New York Times, US News etc). Another resource that you can use are websites of major news networks. (www.cnn.com, www. bbc.co.uk/news, abcnews.go.com, www.cnbc.com etc.)

Course Structure

We will study the ideas of political economy based on the following perspectives.

1. Theoretical Background to understanding International Political Economy.
2. Structures of International Political Economy.
3. Political Risk Analysis – How to conduct such a study.
4. States and Markets in the Global Economy.
5. Transnational Problems and Dilemmas.

Course Requirements

The class will involve a combination of lectures, assignments, discussions and presentations. My expectations for a student taking this course are that you regularly attend class, stay current with the Reading Assignments, and regularly read news coverage of International Relations current events. The class also has an Canvas link and all the class notes, assignment details, syllabus, group assignments etc. will be posted online. Students are required to access the Canvas to keep up-to-date with the class teachings. Two sections of the class will be taught online and the instructor will be available to interact with the students as he teaches the class. In case you have any problem accessing Canvas please inform the instructor in advance so that necessary corrective measures can be taken.

Grades, Assignments and Evaluation

The final grade in the class will be cumulative and will be calculated out of a total of 1000 points. The course letter grade assignment is mentioned below.
Course Letter Grades will be assigned as follows:

(200) – Cumulative Final Examination
(200) – Midterm Examination
(200) – Tests (1 and 2)
(100) – Political Risk Analysis Presentation by Groups
(100) – Attendance and Class Participation
(100) – A response paper to articles assigned by instructor
(100) – Online Class Assignment.

Exams (40% or 400 Points)

The mid-term exam will occur after the major theories of political economy have been taught and will consist of essay type, multiple choices, fill in the blanks and True/False answer questions in any or all combinations. The final exam will be cumulative and will have the same format as the mid-term exam. There will be no make-up examinations for the mid-term as well as the final, without medical documentation explaining the absence.

Response Paper (10% or 100 Points)

In this course students are expected to write one response paper of 4 pages in 12 points, double space, Times New Roman Format. The objective of this assignment is to enable the student to develop an understanding of how to critically evaluate political economy articles. The grading will be done based on the level of critical analysis conducted by the student with respect to the issues being discussed by him/her.

Additional details regarding these assignments will be further provided in class.

Political Risk Analysis Presentation (10% or 100 Points)

As a part of this assignment all the students will be divided into groups. This will be a role play assignment in which the group will give their briefing to the class on a country of their choice. The students are expected to be conducting a political risk analysis of a country. They are expected to look at the country from a perspective of a MNC that is planning on setting up global operations in that particular country. The group is expected to analyze the micro as well as macro socio-political and economic environment in the country. At the end of the presentation, the group is expected to give recommendation on whether the MNC should commence operations in that particular country or not. The grades for this assignment will be based on the quality of the presentation as well as the manner in which the group holds up to cross examination and questioning. Further details regarding this assignment will be given in class.

Tests (20% or 200 Points)

We will also have 2 tests during the course of the semester and each test will be worth 100 points. The format of the test will be a combination of multiple choices and True/False answer questions in any or all combinations. The dates of the tests are mentioned in the course schedule and there will be no make-up of these tests without medical documentation explaining the absence.

Online Assignments (10% or 100 Points)

Over the semester, certain class sections will be taught online. Each online class assignment is worth 25 points. As a result, you will have online assignments that will be identified in advance, and students will be informed about the same. The online assignment will involve students logging onto the canvas site and commenting on a story/new report that is posted. Completion of all online assignments will result in full 100 points being awarded at the end of the semester. If a student fails to complete an online assignment, the student will be penalized 25 points for every assignment missed.

Attendance and Class Participation Policy (10% or 100 points)

You are expected to participate in class and interact with me as well as other students on topics that we discuss in class. I will also keep attendance records for the course and attendance will be taken regularly in class. Absences will be excused only in case of illness, family emergency, or any legitimate academic or university obligation. In case of absence due to illness a doctor’s note from the University Health Center or your doctor would be required. If you must miss class, it is your responsibility to let me know of the circumstances of your absence, prior to the class period if at all possible. Your class participations grades will be determined based on your attendance in class as well as the quality of the presentation made by your groups on the country of your choice. Current University policy recognizes the rights of students to observe religious holidays without penalty to the student. Students will provide advance notice to the instructor in order to make up work, including examinations; they miss as a result of their absence from class due to observance of religious holidays. If satisfactory arrangements cannot be made with the instructor, the student may appeal to the school director or head(s) of department(s) in which the course(s) is / are offered. Students can miss three classes during the entire semester for personal reasons. Any absences beyond the third absence will count against the student’s class participation and attendance grade. 20 points will be deducted for each absence, from the fourth absence onwards.

Academic Honesty

I have a zero-tolerance policy for academic dishonesty and every student is expected to adhere to Eastern Michigan University’s policy on academic honesty. If caught cheating on exams, turning in someone else’s written work, or plagiarizing another’s work you will fail this course. Academic dishonesty, including all forms of cheating, falsification, and/or plagiarism, will not be tolerated in this course. Penalties for an act of academic dishonesty may range from receiving a failing grade for a particular assignment to receiving a failing grade for the entire course. In addition, you may be referred to the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards for discipline that can result in either a suspension or permanent dismissal. The Student Conduct Code contains detailed definitions of what constitutes academic dishonesty but if you are not sure about whether something you are doing would be considered academic dishonesty, consult with the course instructor. You may access the Code online at: www.emich.edu/studentconduct.

I would like to emphasize that you should not assume what any of the policies imply. If you are in any doubt regarding any of the course policies I encourage you to come and talk to me. Furthermore you should always check with me whether it is acceptable to work together with another student on a project or assignment; until so assigned to by the instructor.

Students with Special Needs

If you wish to be accommodated for your disability, EMU Board of Regents Policy 8.3 requires that you first register with the Students with Disabilities Office (SDO) in 240 EMU Student Center. You may contact SDO by telephone (734.487.2470). Students with disabilities are encouraged to register with the SDO promptly as you will only be accommodated from the date you register with them forward. No retroactive accommodations are possible.

Note on Grading Methods and Syllabus

All tests and papers will be graded blind by the instructor. If a student would like to appeal the grading of a question, he or she should submit to the instructor his or her grievance in writing, explaining why he or she feels that the given response was inadequately assessed. The status of students’ scholarship, potential entrance into law school / grad school will not be taken into consideration in grading.

In addition this syllabus is subject to change at the discretion of the instructor. Such changes will be announced in a fair and timely manner.
