

MINOR IN HUMAN SEXUALITY (Housed in the Psychology Department)

The Minor in Human Sexuality will be administered through the Department of Psychology, and will require 21 hours of undergraduate credits. Three required “core” courses plus the pre-requisite of Introductory Psychology offered through the Psychology Department will total 12 credits. The remaining elective credits may be chosen from a list of courses from Departments of African American Studies, Sociology, Anthropology, Criminology & Gerontology, Biology, History, English/Literature, Women and Gender Studies, College of Health and Human Services, and Psychology (no more than 6 elective credits from Psychology). Six of the 12 credits must be at the 300-level or above. Courses in this minor can satisfy both General Education and Human Sexuality Minor requirements. However, except for PSY101, there can be no overlapping courses between a major in Psychology and a minor in Human Sexuality, and no overlapping courses for any other major or minor.

Required core courses: 9 credits

(Note: PSY 101 – Introductory Psychology (3 credits) is a prerequisite course for ALL PSY courses)

PSY 240 – Psychology of Sex Part I: Introduction to Human Sexuality (3 credits)

PSY 380 – Psychology of Sex Part II: Identity, Sex, and Gender (3 credits)

PSY 480 – Psychology of Sex Part III: Atypical Sexual Behavior (3 credits)
