TEACHING SUMMARY

"Once we have the abilities for critical thought and reasoned independence, the opportunities for learning become endless. It is far too easy to accept our social world for what it is and not why it is. When students leave my class, I want them to feel empowered to examine, question, and explore. I recall the teachers who have inspired me to learn—to go beyond the surface with my thoughts—and I try to do the same with my students."

-Jennifer Hatten-Flisher
