TRiO SSS Launches Social Work Internship Program

The TRiO SSS Program has teamed up with Eastern Michigan University's School of Social Work to create Social Work internship program. This program will help Social Work Interns enhance their social work skills and knowledge while providing additional help and support to TRiO SSS students. The program's Social Work supervisor is Ana Calandrino, who holds a Limited License Masters of Social Work and serves as the TRiO SSS Program Assistant.

The TRiO SSS Program is happy to have its first two Bachelors of Social Work Interns. Tanisha Willis learned about TRiO SSS from her field liaison, Claudette Braxon. Since TRiO SSS is a new program here at EMU, Tanisha was not able to find much in-depth information about the program. Working with TRiO SSS has opened the opportunity to learn more about resources that are offered off campus. Working with TRiO SSS she is specializing on finding resources for students that were aged out of the foster care system. While at Eastern, Tanisha is striving to complete her BSW. Later she plans on getting her Masters in Social Work.

Terry Scott joined the TRiO SSS Program because he believes that it is an agency that gives back to the community by helping people that are in need. While working for the TRiO SSS Program, he specializes in finding resources that help victims of human trafficking. He transferred to EMU after doing some research and finding out about the university's high quality programs. He plans on graduating with his BSW in April 2017.

Student Spotlight

Allyson Kauzlarich is a freshman at Eastern Michigan University. She graduated from Hazel Park High School. While at Hazel Park she was involved in the AP Biology Club, National Honors Society, marching band, and she played volleyball and softball.

Allyson is currently an undecided major. She is hoping to complete a minor in French. She chose EMU because when she first took a tour of the university, she felt at home on this beautiful campus. Knowing that the TRiO SSS Program would help her smoothen her transition from high school to college, she decided to join. One of the things that she loves most about the program is how the peer tutors are always there to help out students.

The EMU TRiO Student Support Services (SSS) Program is funded through a five-year (2015-2020), $1.1 million grant from the U.S. Department of Education to serve 140 students each academic year.
