

Eastern Michigan U - DivComm | Career Corner Podcast - Episode 1

This is Eastern Michigan University's Career Corner. Here are your hosts, Brad Minton and Logan Dolan.

Welcome to the Career Corner podcast. My name is Brad Minton.

And my name is Logan Dillon. And we are career coaches at Eastern Michigan University's University Advising and Career Development Center.

Over the next few weeks, Logan and I are going to be covering a few important topics relevant to navigating the maze of COVID-19 as a college student.

Starting next week and posting every Wednesday, we will start the first of our six-part series entitled From Class to Career-Ready Through COVID-19.

So stay tuned for this valuable series where we're going to address the most pressing challenges facing students today, including the transition to remote learning, registration concerns, maintaining your career readiness online, how to network and interview in a virtual format, and how to dedicate this changing landscape of the job market.

Tune in next week where we will interview Kaelyn Rice, one of our amazing academic advisors in the UACDC as she addresses a few of the major concerns for our students.

So stay safe, stay healthy, and as always, remember--

We're here for you and we support your goals.
