

This is Eastern Michigan University's Career Corner. And welcome to season 2-- Finding Your Fit.

Welcome back to the Career Corner podcast. This is Brad Minton, and I'm back again with Logann Dolan. And after a short break, we have returned for a brand-new season.

I'm going to start out with a few questions. Are you anxious about deciding on a major? Are you uncertain about what you want to do? Do you feel overwhelmed with the options, and really just don't even know where to start?

Well, you're in luck. This new season will be an exciting look into addressing those questions and how you can start designing a great career path at EMU, even when you don't know where to start. This season is primarily aimed at our freshman, sophomore, and exploratory students, or anyone who's not yet solidified in their career choices, as we plan to discuss many of the first steps that you can take in your career development journey.

That's right. And this season will also sound a little bit different, as we're having all four career coaches-- Brad, Barb, April, and myself splitting up hosting duties. By providing a range of different valuable perspectives from our hosts and guests, we'll be discussing a range of topics that altogether make up the building blocks for you to choose a major and design your unique career path.

Over the course of the fall semester, we're going to be providing you with key factors, as well as tangible steps that will allow you to understand yourself fully in order to make well-informed decisions about the opportunities and challenges that you wish to seek in the future, and how your education at EMU will help get you there.

Tune in every Wednesday morning throughout the semester for great content, fresh perspectives, and easy action steps. Next week, we'll jump in with the easiest first step you can take-- meeting with a career coach. Barb and I will be breaking down the benefits of meeting with a career coach and also giving you an idea of what to expect from your very first appointment.

Before we close out this episode, we want to let you know about an exciting opportunity for all of our new and returning students. This year, Eagle Fest, our student involvement fair, is moving to a virtual format. Eagle Fest is one of the great opportunities for all of our students to learn about and join over 250 student organizations at Eastern Michigan University.

It's a great way to network, connect with other individuals of common interest, build relationships. And I'm telling you, it can be one of the greatest things that you do at Eastern Michigan. Unfortunately, due to social distancing guidelines, this event had to be moved to an online virtual format. So be on the lookout for news and updates regarding Eagle Fest. This event will be occurring September the 8th through the 10th, from 4:00 to 6:00 PM.

That's all for us today. Until next time, remember--

We support your goals.
