

Eastern Michigan U - DivComm | Career Corner Podcast - S3 - EP1

This is Eastern Michigan University's Career Corner. Welcome to Season Three, Major Choices and Career Decisions.

Hello, everyone. My name is Caleb Burlingame, and I'm a junior at Eastern Michigan University studying marketing and communications. I've worked at the UACDC for three years, and I want to tell you a little bit about how we could help you.

We're very excited to introduce the new season, Major Choices and Career Decisions. The amazing career coaches here at Eastern Michigan University will cover some of the most common questions related to major and career choice.

Being an EMU student myself, I know how hard it is to pick a career path. I came in as a bright-eyed freshman wanting to do accounting. But after speaking with the UACDC and the great career coaches, I figured out that marketing was more my path. Now, I'm set to graduate in a year with my marketing degree. And I'm very happy about where I'm going to be headed.

In the coming weeks, our various career coaches will host and bring in some amazing guests, such as EM University administrators, faculty, and various career experts to answer questions such as, I know I want to major in business, but now what? Or what are green careers? Or what can I do with an art degree?

Or I like math and science, so now what? Or I know I love helping people, but how do I narrow things down? Our coaches will tackle these questions and many other issues related to the sometimes difficult path to finding a major and career path that is truly fulfilling. You're not going to want to miss this really exciting and insightful series.

We start diving in next week. Stay tuned. And remember, we support your goals.
